are taking it a step further this time. Marvel Studios President, Kevin Feige, has revealed that the team have already started working on the third entry in their new 'Phase 3'. And even better news, Marvel's new chief creative officer, Joe Quesada, has confirmed that they already have a "great idea" for the first movie. And that idea might just be a continuation of Captain America: The Winter Solider. The question is, where will this new MCU movie take place? We know that they'll be set in the future for the events of the Infinity Stones, and could be taking place at one of the five Infinity Stones, in history. Or, they could even feature other locations and times as we've seen with the other MCU movies. Just a fan, but it would be cool to see the Winter

Soldier and Falcon meet. Cap and Bucky in the same film? Let's just make it happen, Marvel! The movie is going to be a part of this 'Phase 3' MCU movie universe, which means that they'll definitely be utilizing heroes from other movies. And Marvel have already let us know that they're already making plans for these crossover scenes. "It's safe to say that [The Winter Soldier] is a big part of our future plans," Kevin Feige said. "This is the most exciting time in the Marvel Cinematic Universe to me. It's now time to unify the ranks of the heroes under one banner and on one team. We need a team that's bigger and more powerful than any team before. That team needs to be the Avengers. "An event of this magnitude will require all of the heroes, including the Guardians of the Galaxy, a group of which we've recently announced that we have a solo film, to band together." There are already plans in place for the MCU movie universe to develop, as confirmed by Marvel's Chief Creative Officer, Joe Quesada. "The movies come first, and then the TV shows and then the comics," Quesada said. "So with the Guardians, and Acronis True Image 2014Q: How to use Ruby's array_sample method on a particular index of an array I have an array that I want to split into two groups. One group will have the majority of its elements, and the other will have a random sample of that majority. I've tried the following method, but it doesn't quite work as I intended. def random_sample if @total % 3 == 0 return [@lots]

else return @lots.sample end end def random_sample(amount) return @lots[(rand.rand * (@lots.size - amount +

1)..@lots.size].sample(amount) end Essentially what I want to do is sample the array, and keep the sample at the specified amount. This isn't a case of
"are all items the same" because there are variations. For example, if @lots[0, 3, 4, 5] is the array to be sampled, then @lots_sample = [0, 2] would be the result. But if @lots[0, 3, 4, 5] is the array, then @lots_sample = [5] would be the result.
